UNITE TO HELP THOSE IN NEED ON LI

Hempstead, NY (January 10, 2013) – On Wednesday, January 9, 2013 Cure Mommy's Breast Cancer supported The INN by sponsoring a hot nutritious meal for over 500 Long Islander's in need.

Suiting up in their hats and gloves, Cure Mommy's volunteers, along with regular INN volunteers, graciously prepared and served a five course meal at Long Island's largest soup kitchen, the Mary Brennan INN.

“Although our mission statements may read differently, our ultimate goal is the same, to offer help to those in need,” said Cynthia Sucich, INN Director of Communications. “We are so excited to have this opportunity to work with this organization and mutually reap the benefits of our partnership.”

“When you find something that really grabs you, it doesn't matter the name of the organization that you are supporting, it's just about people helping people,” said Ellen Siddiqui, Executive Director of Cure Mommy's Breast Cancer. “To be able to see how many people on Long Island that need a hot meal...it's heartbreaking.”

Cure Mommy's Breast Cancer is a not-for-profit organization which generally raises funds to provide financial assistance to anyone in need of assistance while suffering the burdens of breast cancer.

The INN

The INN (Interfaith Nutrition Network) is a dynamic, not-for-profit, volunteer-based organization working to resolve Long Island's hunger and homelessness issues by providing food, shelter, long-term housing, and supportive services in a dignified and respectful manner to families and individuals seeking assistance. A dedicated staff, committed volunteers, and broad-based community support help The INN to deliver its services through 16 soup kitchens in 22 locations, three homeless shelters, and a Long Term Housing Program consisting of 23 housing units for families and housing for up to seven veterans. As one of Long Island's largest private social service agencies, The INN is ranked among the most cost-effective charities in the United States.
